Color Folder On Mount St. Helens Issued

A color folder on Mount St. Helens has been produced by the Pacific Northwest Region of the USDA-Forest Service and is now available to individuals on request.

The six-page 8½ by 11 folder contains before, during, and after eruption photographs, drawings, and a reproduction of a painting of the volcano in eruption in 1847. Geologic history, Indian lore, the naming of the mountain, and other information is included.

Copies of the folder are available at the Gifford Pinchot National Forest office, 500 West 12th Street, Vancouver, at the Forest's two visitor centers on Interstate 5, and at the Multnomah Building lobby office of the Forest Service at 319 S.W. Pine Street in Portland.
